Our agency, Hill Country Crisis Council, Inc. (HCCC) serves, through direct services, a population of children and adults who have experienced sexual assault, physical assault, and family violence. As a non-profit organization providing these services, the last few years of uncertainty have impacted our fundraising efforts and we have been challenged to stay connected with private and community donors to sustain our mission.

The opportunity for HCCC to intersect with both Margie Jetton and Carolyn Northcutt around the Employee Retention Credit Program (ERCP) has been a blessing and has provided a lift of relief and the opportunity for us to invest in our mission's sustainability. They both took the time to help us understand the benefits of the program, encouraged us to move forward in connecting with Jorns and Associates, and followed back up with us during the process. Earlier this year in May, we registered with Jorns and Associates to begin the ERCP, and from the onset, the services and customer relations provided were professional, seamless, and extremely user friendly. Four short months later we began receiving checks from the U.S. Treasury – we can't thank Jorns and Associates enough for their expertise and commitment.

I appreciate Margie, Carolyn, and Jorns and Associates whole heartedly. Our community is fortunate to have these resources.

Sincerely,

Brent Ives
